“DigiTEENS.gr” – Learning to Learn and Learning to Discern in the new produsage ecosystem

Generation Z was born within a globally connected ecosystem with Internet and digital devices at their disposal. Nevertheless, the shift to emergency remote learning due to the pandemic proved that they were neither prepared to learn online nor to discern disinformation in a crisis era. The “DigiTEENS.gr” project was a rapid response effort to enhance digital and media literacy skills for teenagers through CLIL in blended learning environments expanding its efficacy on a national level.

Re-Teach, Re-Coach, Re-Learn

Critical Thinking, Problem Solving and Creativity are among the most wanted 21st century soft skills according to the World Economic Forum and HR professionals. Is ‘Redefining Teaching’ somehow embedded in transforming our world? Taking into consideration globalization, diversity and the 2030 UN agenda for sustainable development goals for a better world, education, learning, school, teacher, and student, are terms that should be re-evaluated. As the 21st century concept of ‘Lifelong Learning’ acquires new dimensions, Ready for Planet English (Pre-A1 - B2) series by Eli Publishing is the innovative educational tool that sets the mindset for skilled citizens of the world by teaching global English.

Critical Thinking in the EFL: Think to learn

We are all aware of famous proverbs related to thinking, such as 'think before you speak', 'great minds think alike' or as Descartes put it 'I think; therefore I am'. We are also aware that thinking is essential for learning (Kadel, 2015). However, why do our students have difficulty in thinking critically? Is thinking something that we should teach and if yes how are we going to do it? During this session, we will explore the what, how, and why of critical thinking in the EFL class.
